COMMERCIAL ASS'N ELECTS OFFICERS

The Auburn Commercial Association resumed activities last week with a well attended meeting at the Cosmopolitan Hall.

Mr. C. E. Hill of the Department of Sewers of Chicago, addressed the meeting and made full explanation of the existing conditions and although promising no immediate relief from the danger of flooded basements outlined the plans of the large intercepting sewer to be installed when the Calumet-Sag Drainage Canal is completed. A committee was appointed, however, to take existing conditions with a view to bettering same.

After the sewerage question was disposed of an election of a new president and secretary took place to fill vacancies due to the resignation.

Mr. Sam Rabinan, one of the most popular and public spirited men in Auburn Park, was immediately chosen as President, and to all appearances seems to have the hearty support of all who have the interests of Auburn Park at heart.

Mr. Henry of the Auburn State Bank, also received the unanimous vote of the meeting as Secretary.

With officers such as these at the helm of the organization great things are to be looked for in the near future.

Little can be done, however, without the united support of every business man in this section, but if every one will turn in and do his mite this neighborhood will be one of the most prosperous in Chicago.

Let's all get together now and attend the meetings of the association. Bring your ideas with you, make suggestions —boost for the organization, boost for the neighborhood and the results are bound to come.

We want all the news all the time and will be glad to publish items of interest if sent in signed. Our address is 540 W. 63rd St.

On Sunday, March 19th, the Auburn Park M. E. Church pledged quite a sum of money to be used in clearing a mortgage which soon falls due.

A good demonstration of Auburn Park efficiency was shown last week after the bomb outrage in obliterating the traces of damage. Among those who suffered considerable damage from the shock was Fleischman's Millinery Store, and within twenty-four hours after the disaster Mr. Fleischman had all repairs completed, leaving no signs whatever. This is showing some speed, considering the fact that Friday was the busiest day in this store this season.

Miss Grace Vonderheid, 8009 S. Peoria St., entertained a large number of her friends March 18th, and all present had a very fine time, as Miss Grace is a very efficient hostess.

At this time of the year variable weather conditions are met with, the days may be warm, evenings it may be cold. A short fire for one or two hours to take the chill out of the house is very acceptable by everybody, also there are days and nights that are very cold, in that case it is necessary to keep a continued fire. The question is what coal is most suited for this changeable weather. We say MEINER'S SPECIAL SOFT COAL will answer the purpose, because you can start a fire very quickly and you can make it last from one to twenty-four hours. MEINER'S SPECIAL SOFT COAL is just the right size, makes intense heat, positively has no screenings and clean to handle, can easily be burned in any hot water or steam plants and also in any stove or furnace. MEINER'S SPECIAL SOFT COAL is sold only in ton lots or over at $4.25 per ton. Call us up for a trial ton, we deliver anywhere. Phone STEWART 70. J. B. BIG IMPROVEMENT AT 78TH AND HALSTED STS.

Halsted Street is known to be one of the greatest business streets in the city of Chicago. It is up to live merchants and property owners to boost instead of knocking business conditions in their immediate neighborhood.

Rosenblum and Bergstedt, two live druggists bought the store of Otto Stoeffhaas less than four months ago and have thoroughly demonstrated that the business is there.

They have installed a new white sanitary soda fountain, and serve the most wholesome and positively cold soda on the street.

This store has been restocked with Drugs, Chemicals, Cigars, Cigarettes, Eastman's Kodak Supplies, Candies and a Circulating Library. One trial will convince you of the service they extend. Call Stewart 1323. Rosenblum & Bergstedt, Druggist, 7758 So. Halsted St.

AUBURN HIGHLANDS IMPROVEMENT CLUB ON THE JOB

The saloon problem in West Auburn grows daily more distressing. Members of the Auburn Highlands Improvement Club who work earnestly in every known way to prevent the multiplication of saloons in their community note with distrust the construction of small rooms in the rear of the building on 79th Street between Racine Ave. and May Street, which is the location of the proposed new saloon. The people of this community fear there will be a harmful lowering of the high moral standing of the community by the presence of the kind of people whose trade requires the little back room. If a license is issued for a saloon at this location it will distress the community greatly.

A delegation of this club attended the March 22nd meeting of the City Council Transportation Committee with an unsatisfactory result. However, the 32nd Ward aldermen promise that after the new council takes seats the first of next month, the Racine Rve. transportation complaints and requests will be taken up at once and a satisfactory result obtained. It is now up to the 32nd Ward Aldermen to satisfy their constituents in West Auburn.

The next Improvement Club meeting will be Friday, April 7th, 8 o'clock P. M., at Busch Bros. Real Estate Office, 1136 W. 79th St.

Auburn, the wise buyer's trading place.

The En Avant Club will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting, Friday, April 7th, at four o'clock, at the home of V. Weil, 7625 Green St. Boys and girls of good moral character and between nine to fourteen years of age are invited. No dues.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lossau, residing at 7616 South Peoria St., were the happy recipients of a very pleasant surprise in the form of an unannounced visit of their friends, Wednesday evening, March 22nd.

A gay time was participated in by everyone. A special treat, thoroughly enjoyed, was a solo rendered by the enforced hostess. Refreshments were served, amid much hilarity.

His Affinity

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

"Jim," said my friend Mrs. Mowbry, "why don't you get married?"

"Nonsense, Helen! You know as well as I that we men don't marry the women; they marry us."

"But," Helen persisted, "if no woman chooses to take the trouble to bring you down and you don't care to remain single, deprived of wife, children and the comforts of a home, it seems to me that you had better bestir yourself."

Helen was a matchmaker. I knew she had some scheme on hand and waited for her to declare it.

"I can make it easy for you," she continued. "I know a girl who, like you, has put off matrimony too long and has begun to realize that she is drifting toward a lonely old spinsterhood. I have offered to help her out. I have invited her to spend July and August with me at Fernwood. I shall have other guests during the summer, both men and women. I shall tell her that I have a man in view for her. How would you like to be that man?"

"Helen," I exclaimed admiringly, "you are the queen of matchmakers! Had you told me you had a girl for me and introduced me to her, she and I, knowing of your plan, would doubtless have spurned each other. Your proposal is delightful. I enter into it with all my heart. But why do you assume that there will be a natural selection between us?"

"I don't. I simply assume that you are persons of opposite sex who seek a mate. The mate being at hand, perhaps you will recognize it if you are left to yourselves to do so."

I spent a number of week ends at Helen's country seat, besides two weeks in August.

I fancied she had got up the scheme to make a match between me and some dear friend of hers, and I believed that I might find out the young lady by the fact that she was some one Helen adored. But I knew that Helen would conceal this adoration from me.

I settled upon a Miss Jewett, one of her guests during the summer whom I had heard her speak of quite often before as the lady between whom and me there was to be a natural selec-

The Way You Think.

Deem you not that thoughts are idle,
And but words and actions count;
Thought can build you mighty courage
Difficulties to surmount.

Thoughts of fear will hold and bind you,
Dull your zeal and zest of goal;
E'er you start they will defeat you,
Disappointment fill your soul.

You will make your own condition
By the thoughts you hold this hour;
Rule your thoughts or you they'll ruin,
Snatch you now thought's sov'reign

Hold you ever thoughts of valor,
Higher and on up you'll climb.
Look about you, you'll see fashioned
Thought-forms on the walls of time.

PADEREWSKI'S APPROVAL

Dieu Donnee Eugene Aubin, a very clever pianist of this city, had the pleasure of a personal interview with the renowned performer, Ignace Jean Paderewski. Mr. Aubin was assured by this world renowned performer that he gave every evidence of becoming an artist of no mean ability. Mr. Paderewski left his autograph with Mr. Aubin, inscribed as follows: "Souvenir Sympathique a M. D. E. Aubin. I. J. Paderewski."

Runciman and Henley.

It is related that shortly after Runciman, the well known writer on seafarers and smugglers and poachers, had bitterly fallen out with W. E. Henley he lay dying in London. To Henley in Edinburgh, lame and ill, came an indirect message that Runciman believed that if Henley would come and look on him he would get well. 'It was a dying man's whimsy, but Henley took the train from Edinburgh and arrived in London to find his friend dead.

A noble head if it's made to think,
But what is it worth to you?
Does it from its natural labor shrink?
Or plan the things that you do?

Does it remember the things that you see?
Can it recall what you hear?
Must it learn by knocks or is reason there?
Is its logic sound and clear?

Can it with tremendous force put forth
The wonderful pow'r of thought?
Or is it only a devil's workshop
Where idle fancies are wrought?

Just ask yourself as the days go by,
If you never have before,
What is the value you put on your head?
Each day it ought to be more.

AT THE COSMOPOLITAN

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29.

Matinee 5 and 10c. Evening 10 and 15c. Continuous 2 to 11:30.

DOUBLE FEATURE DAY.

Billy Burke in Peggy, 8 acts; and Paramount production, The Tongues of Men, 5-act drama, featuring Constance Collier.

Either of the two features are worth the admission alone; collectively it is the biggest and most valuable offering we have presented.

If you have seen "Peggy" you will no doubt agree with us that it is worth seeing again.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30.

No matinee. Children 5c, adults 10c.

A startling novelty, The Famous Capt. Lewis Himself, 'In Person," the original world renowned Chinatown guide of Frisco's "Little Hell." The man who has guided thousands of the elite on "sluming parties" through this strange and unknown underworld of America.

Capt. Lewis explains in five wonderful reels of motion pictures entitled "A Trip Through Chinatown."

All the weirdness and difference of this existence.

300—actual life scenes—300.

Filmed by this pioneer guide, who has acquired fame and fortune in 18 years of nightly sojourns into the bowels of the earth, where a wrong move meant instant disappearance and an unknown fate.

Every day spent amongst the strange people was a "hair trigger" existence.

You only know of opium dens and hop habitues through what you read in papers. The real fan tan fanatic and Chinese girls from distorted descriptions.

Thousands have paid thousands of dollars to accompany Capt. Lewis thru Chinatown. Thousands will never perhaps go to San Francisco. There are probably hundreds in this vicinity curious about this little underground city. This is your opportunity.

With the Chinatown pictures will also be seen motion pictures of the Barbarz Coast, San Francisco, Cal., the largest dance hall district in the world. One hundred white and colored people dancing the "Bunny Hug," "The Texas Tommy," "Fox Trot" and "Grizzly Bear." Full of sensation, comedy and ginger.

See it all—complete, conclusive—for 5 and 10c.

Also a Frank Daniels comedy and other good pictures.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31.

Accept our guarantee. If any of our readers are in the habit of attending our theater one night a week only, this is the night.

Wm. S. Hart in Hell's Hinges, 5 acts. A whole town was built to be burned to furnish one of the big scenes.

A lawless element destroys a church and then the most lawless citizens in a strange way wipe out the entire elements. A picture so good you will want to stay for two shows.

Also see Kathlyn Williams in a 3-reel S. & A. drama, No. 13 Westbound, exciting and different. Added extra. A whirlwind of cyclonic comedy, Fatty Arbuckle and Mabel Normand in Bright Lights, 2-reel Keystone merrymaker. Come early.

SATURDAY, APRIL 1.

From 2 to 3—Kiddies' Hour.

A 5-reel Paramount Mary Pickford drama. It's remarkably good.

From 3 to 5 and 6:30 to 11, Olga Petrova, in The Soul Market, 5 acts. A great star in a great play.

Also The Detective's Peril, a Hazard of Helen railroad drama; a Vitagraph comedy, Hearst-Vitagraph, Ignatz and Krazy Kat, and vaudeville.

Admission, children 5c, adults 10c.

Children or adults attending the Kiddies' Hour are permitted to remain for regular show with no charge.

All children attending the matinee get a free ticket good for another day.

9dded extra Saturday, matinee and night, April Fool picture—Topsy Turvy, Funalogue, Peculiar.

SUNDAY, APRIL 2.

1:30 to 5:30, 5 and 10c; 5:30 to 11:15, 10 and 15c.

Marguerite Clark in Mice and Men, 6-act Paramount.

Customary others, and high class vaudeville.

Bear in mind complimentary opening of new Cosmopolitan Ball Room, Wednesday, April 19.

HIS AFFINITY—Con'd from Page3

tion. Miss Jewett was evidently a young woman not especially of beauty or endowed with such lightweight frivolities as are usually attractive to men. In other words, there was a lot to her, though I admit the words are a very poor description. I met her at a week end visit early in the summer and, having settled upon her as the lady intended for me, showed her considerable attention. To tell the truth, she interested me in conversation and I preferred her company.

I met her at Helen's again in July and was counting on further pleasant moments with her, but this time she was principally taken up with a Mr. Judkins, whom she seemed never to tire of. If I were talking with her and Judkins came up she would dismiss me with a nod, accompanied by a smile, and I was thus commanded to give place to him. After three days at Fernwood I went back to town disgruntled.

During the longer period I spent at Fernwood Miss Jewett was again a visitor there. She seemed delighted to meet me again, and we were getting on nicely when that fellow Judkins reappeared, and again my association with Miss Jewett was broken up.

"I suppose," I grumbled to my hostess, "that you've got another couple besides me and my unknown to bring together—Miss Jewett and that cad Judkins. What she can see in him"—

Helen smiled and turned away without listening to the rest of it, and I went off to hunt up some of the other spinsters, none of whom interested me in the least. Judkins went away Sunday afternoon, and I spent Sunday evening in a tete-a-tete with "his selection," which was what I considered her. She had the tact to ignore him now that he was gone, and I had never known her to be so entertaining.

Not long after this I told Helen that her selection plan for me must have gone awry, since I had evidently run across Judkins' affinity. But she turned the subject, giving me no satisfaction.

The summer passed without any selection between me and a girl, so far as I could see, but during the winter I saw a great deal of Miss Jewett. I ceased to be interfered with by Judkins and—well, to make a long story short, I made a match with Miss Jewett. Tom Mowbry and his wife were at the wedding, and after the ceremony Tom handed his wife a valuable pearl necklace. I asked how he came to give it to her on that especial occasion.

"She won it on a bet. Last winter she bet me that within a year she would make a match between you and the wife you have just married."

I turned to Helen: "You played me false. My affinity was in your secret."

"Of course she was. Didn't you say, 'We men don't marry the women; they marry us?'"

"Thank you very much, Helen," said my wife, "for helping me out. I am sure we shall be very happy."

"How about Judkins?" I asked in wonderment.

"Stool pigeon!" shouted Tom.

"Great Scott!" I exclaimed. "Is there no honor among women?"

"Yes," said Helen; "the same honor there is among thieves."

Self Protection.

"Why do you keep such a careless servant?" "She's the only one that my clothes wouldn't fit."—Judge.

Trick of a Collector.

Collectors are—in short, they are collectors. It was a dealer in antiques not long ago who was, or professed to be, in search of new quarters. He inspected an oldtime mansion fallen upon evil days. In one room was a carved marble mantel, an imported piece, and he opened negotiations to lease the room which contained it. The lease signed, he told the landlord that he desired a new mantelpiece put in in place of the old one. The landlord, of course, demurred.

"If you don't want to put in a new mantelpiece I will at my own expense," replied the collector.

That satisfied the landlord.

The fine marble mantelpiece was accordingly replaced by a cheap and showy horror and the carved antique carefully taken down and carted to the collector's shop, set up there to admirable advantage and eventually sold to somebody who could afford to pay the very stiff price asked for it. As for the room with its new chimney decoration, the collector cannily contrived to sublet it.—New York Post.

An Unearned Assist.

"One day while I was catching for the Dallas (Tex.) team," said Claude Berry recently, "a runner on first started to steal second. I pegged toward the base, but our pitcher—Walker—had moved out of the box after he delivered the ball and walked right into the throw.

"The ball hit Walker on top of the head, and as Walker dropped to the ground the ball bounded high in the air. The runner had reached second by that time and, not seeing the ball in play, raced for third. But our shortstop saw the ball, caught it as it came down and whipped it to third in time to put out the runner.

"The official scorer credited three men with an assist. He gave me an assist because I had made the original throw, he gave one to the pitcher because his head had deflected the ball to the shortstop, and, of course, he gave one to the shortstop for making the throw to third."—Exchange.

Kind Hearted.

"And did you enjoy your African trip, major? How did you like the savages?"

"Oh, they were extremely kind hearted. They wanted to keep me there for dinner."—London Opinion.
